PROFILE

When I first joined film school, I met a lot of people who wanted to become directors. So much so that they chose to study editing because it would help them better that craft. However, editing is the only thing I can imagine myself doing. Editing is a lot like writing, it has the power to make people imagine. Just as how a bunch of words can be weaved into something beautiful, editing allows me, as the great Andrei Tarkovsky said, to make a mosaic of time.
